

Arabian Weaver Socks

by Benita Story (c) 2013

Once upon a time, in the land of the Arabian Nights, there lived a poor weaver. He was so poor, that he could not afford a place to live and work that had a window. Just by using the light of tallow candles, he tried to weave his rugs, but because he could not see the colors very well while he wove, he easily lost his place and made lots of mistakes in his rugs. Because his rugs were full of errors, he could not sell them for very much money, and only poor people, like himself, would pay him anything for his rugs.

Then, one day, after selling what rugs he could, he walked through the market to see what he could buy with his meager earnings. He looked at all of the fruits and fancy breads and meats that he could not afford and dreamed of the day when he could have light enough to see so that his rugs would be as nice and pretty as the weavers who made lots of money from their rugs. He had bought some plain bread and some cheese and some watery wine to ease his hunger, when he came upon the stall of an old woman who looked even poorer than he was. She was selling the poorest quality of housewares and no one was buying anything from her. He looked over all of the things in her stall when he spied an old, battered lamp. He negotiated a price with the old woman, and soon, the battered lamp was his. He was happy, for as soon as he could afford to buy oil to put in it, he would be able to see better to weave.

So, the poor weaver went home to his dark room, lit one of his tallow candles, and began to clean and polish his new lamp. As soon as he took a rag to it and began to rub, a strange thing happened. Smoke came from its spout and it began to hum loudly. The poor weaver was very afraid, so he sat the lamp down on the floor and stepped away from it. The smoke became thicker and denser and suddenly a great djinn appeared. The poor weaver, terrified at the sight, fell on his face and trembled.

The great djinn laughed gently at the poor weaver's fears. "Fear not, my Master. I have not been summoned to cause you harm, but to grant you a wish, instead."

The weaver looked up at the djinn, saw the kindly smile on its face and stood up to face the djinn. "Is it true? You can grant me a wish?"

"Yes, Master, it is true. But think wisely before you speak, for you have but one wish and it cannot be undone."

The poor weaver's face lit up and he said, "Oh great djinn, I know what it is that my heart has longed for these many years. I wish for a large window to be placed in my humble home so that I may see to weave perfect and colorful rugs to sell in the market."

And the djinn said, "Your wish is my command, oh Master." Then the djinn snapped his fingers and a large window appeared in the wall of the man's home, larger than any of the windows in any of the houses and towers around him. Then the djinn disappeared, and the lamp looked as it had when he began to polish it.

And from that day forward, the poor weaver was poor no more because he really was a very talented weaver and the rugs he wove were truly more perfect and lovelier than any of the others in the marketplace. He sold each and every one of his rugs for a far larger price than any other weaver in the city.

Also, from that day forward, the battered lamp that the weaver had purchased in the marketplace from the old woman shone brightly and held a place of honor in his home. He polished it nightly and hoped that one day the djinn would reappear so the weaver could thank the djinn for the wish and show the djinn what had become of him because of the wish that was granted.

The End

Yarn used is Cascade 220 Fingering Weight. It is recommended using reinforcement yarn in either Navy Blue or Black when knitting the heel flap, heel turn and toe decreases. This will increase the life of these socks greatly.

Gauge: 9 rows and 5 stitches = 1 inch.

Size US2 needles, either set of 5 dpns or 8" or 9" circular such as Addi or Hiya Hiya.

Cast on 72 stitches in 9573 In the Navy either over two needles, over a needle 2 sizes larger, or using a super stretchy cast on, and join in the round making sure the stitches are not twisted. Begin knitting row one of Chart One for the leg.

When you have completed Chart Two - The Heel Flap and Heel Turn, continue using 9573 In the Navy yarn, and pick up the 16 slipped stitches along the side of the heel flap, knit along the instep, then pick up and knit the 16 slipped stitches along the other side of the heel flap. Then knit the first 6 stitches of the 12 remaining stitches of the heel turn. This will bring you back to the center back and the beginning of the first round of Chart Three. Place marker and begin Chart Three at this point.

This sock is written for a women's size US7 foot. If your foot is longer than 9 inches, before you begin the toe decreases on Chart Three, knit two rows of 9573 In the Navy and 2 rows of 7827 Goldenrod for every 1/2 inch of needed length.

To cast off, simply break off the yarn, leaving at least 12", and, using a tapestry needle, thread the remaining stitches onto the tapestry needle, going around twice. Then pull the opening closed, poke the needle through the center and weave in the end on the wrong side. Weave in all remaining ends. Sock should be hand-washed and either blocked on sock blockers or laid flat to dry.
